publisher's notes

Attendance at the Summer Market was much below par, but manufacturers were quick to report that those who did come, bought. From all the extended summer-sales around the country, dealers are certainly working-off their inventories and of necessity will have to go to Market pretty soon.
One thing that cannot be denied is that the consumer is certainly expressing the utmost selectivity in his purchases and that he is buying quality and will not settle for less. So many people have bought all the things they need basically that their purchases now reflect luxury-buying and they are trading-up quality-wise. This condition is normal and is prevalent in many fields. Employment continues high and with incomes rolling in, Americans will continue to spend and spend, but they will get fussy about what they do buy.

Perhaps one of the reasons traffic was "off" at the Summer Market is in a measure due to the treatment being given the travelling public by the hotels. The hotels, pretty much without exception in the Loop area, have poured-it-on for all the traffic will bear. They have made "confirmed reservations" and then failed to deliver. Many many buyers are getting "fed-up" with the "pushing-around" and where they can, they skip a Market. Never have the hotels had it so good, given so little and been so nasty about it. Firms who have in the past been able to "block-off" the necessary rooms for their executive and sales-personnel for a "fee", this year found even the "fee" didn't help. Your editor saw many cases where a call on the house-phone to a clerk with a few "magic words" produced excellent results for the caller, although it set him back $10.00 to $20.00 depending upon the accomodations desired. This seems effective in several Loop hotels.
Someone in Chicago, could and should do something about this situation and fast.

Some managing editors really have it easy. Louis Goodenough, HOME FURNISHINGS DAILY has been writing a stem-winder column from Milan, where he is attending the Triennale and touring southern Italy. This daily column has a rare sparkle and has made excellent reading during the hot summer. Scheduled to appear in book form in December, your editor is looking forward to publication date and highly recommends this 4-star treat to our readers.

Presented in this current issue are a number of new firms who cordially invite the opportunity to serve you, along with our regular co-operatives. Of course we will appreciate our readers mentioning this publication when they write to the firms whose co-operative effort makes our existence possible.

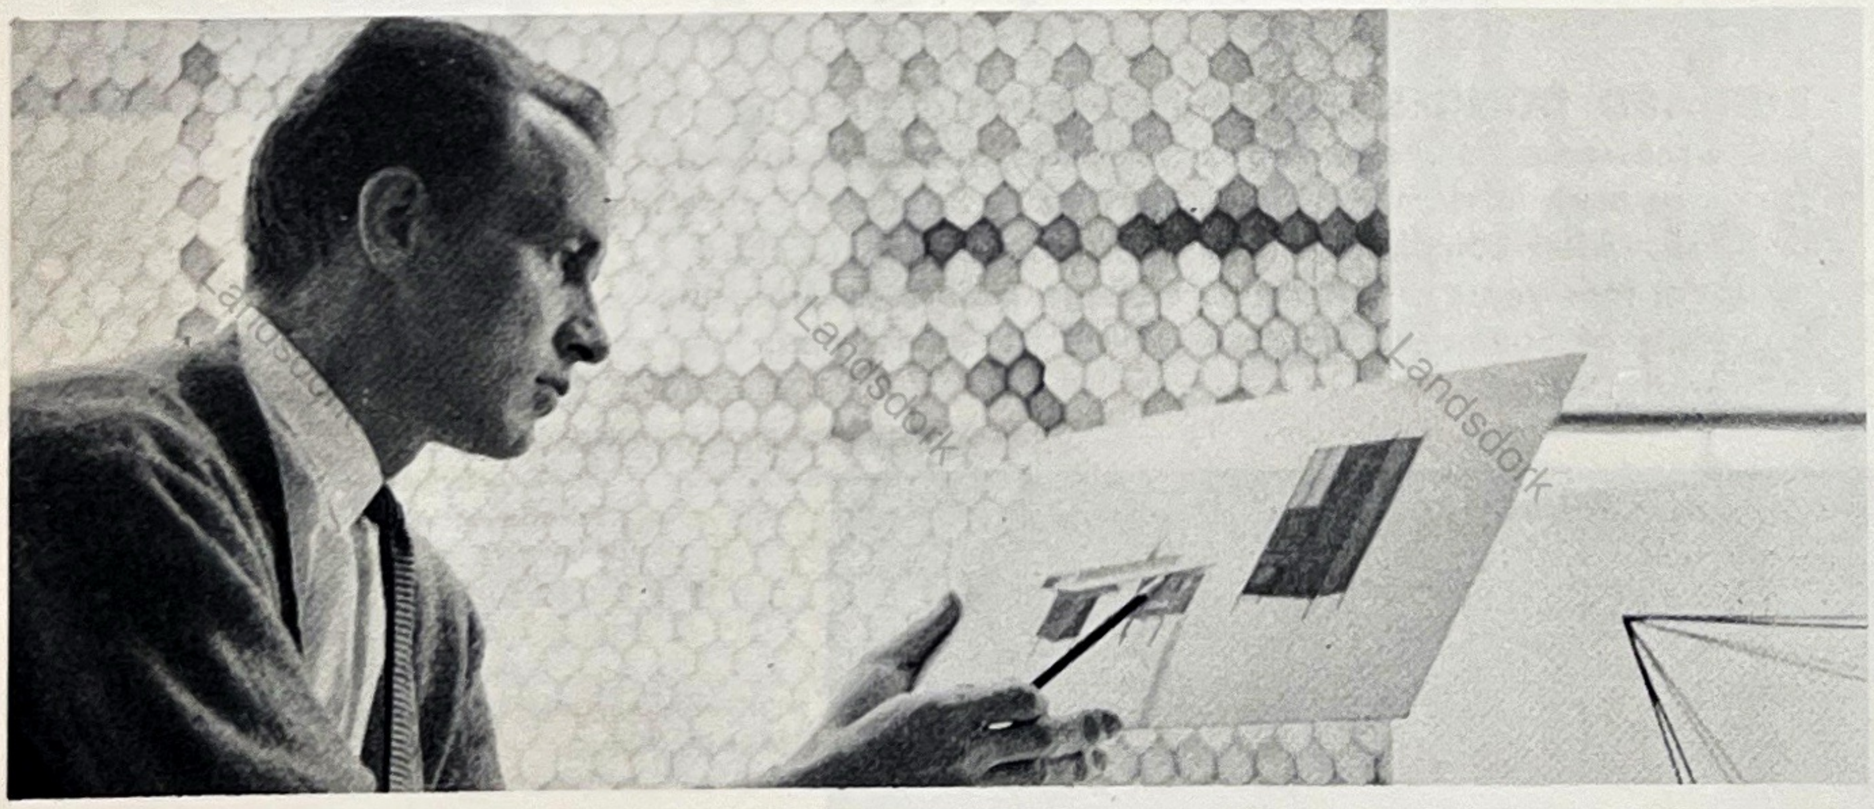
personalities

WILLARD K. MARTIN was born in the middle west but received most of his schooling in the Pacific Northwest.
After serving four years with the Air Force, he entered the University of Oregon School of Architecture & Allied Arts where he received a Bachelor of Architecture degree.
Earning three scholarships with a trip to Europe, he studied at the Palais des Beaux Arts in Fontainebleau, France.
Currently teamed with William Taylor, Martin — Taylor is designing for Arch Gordon Furniture Company, Jo Mead Designs, Russel Reinforced Plastics Corp., The Architectural Plastics Corp., of Northwest Craftsmen Co.



WILLIAM PAUL TAYLOR although born in the midwest received most of his education in Southern California. Interested in the field of graphic art and design, William served as a photographer with the Army Coast Artillery. Returning to civilian life he became a free lance interior designer and was associated with several Southern California design firms. He studied at the Chouinard Art Institute, Los Angeles and the Architectural School, University of Oregon, where he met his design associate, Willard Martin. Presented in this current issue are some designs executed by this design team for Jo Mead Designs and Arch Gordon Furniture Corp.

FREDA DIAMOND is an internationally known designer and homefurnishings consultant. Working as a stylist and coordinator to department stores brings her in close contact with manufacturers and consumer tastes. Among her many clients are such firms as General Electric, Libbey Glass, Continental Can Company, Joanna Western Mills, G. Fox & Co., and many others. For three successive years Miss Diamond's glassware designs for mass market were selected by "Good Design". Quoting the New York Times, "Miss Freda Diamond probably exercises more influence on the taste of the average homefurnishings consumer than any other individual in the U.S."

RICHARD DONGES designed the Matrix group of contemporary wall accessories for Peter Pepper Products, shown in this issue. Dick was born in Hamilton Ohio, moving to Southern California in 1938. After completing three years in the Coast Guard, he spent four years at El Camino College before entering the University of Southern California where he is majoring in Industrial Design.
